CRITERIA 1

TEACHING LEARNING

1.1 MODE OF TEACHING

1. Blended Teaching (Lecture Method and Technology Based Teaching)

Blended Teaching in College: A Modern Approach to Learning

Blended teaching, often referred to as hybrid learning, is an educational approach that combines traditional face-to-face classroom instruction with online learning components. In our college (Govt. Degree College Sarahan) setting, this method has gained significant traction as it offers flexibility, better student engagement, and we may integrate diverse teaching tools. By blending the best of both in-person, lecture method blended with ICT tools and online learning through whatsapp groups, our college caters to the varied learning preferences of students while enhancing the overall learning experience.

Key Components of Blended Teaching

1. Face-to-Face Instruction: Traditional classroom settings remain integral to blended teaching. Instructors can engage students through lectures and discussions. This in-person interaction fosters a sense of community, allows for real-time feedback, and helps build critical thinking and problem-solving skills.
2. Use of Smart class Room and ICT: Along with the lecture method our teachers through PPTs, pictures and videos elaborate a subject if it needs to be elaborated with the help of smart classrooms and with the use of ICT.
3. Online Learning: The online component often includes multimedia resources, such as videos, podcasts, interactive simulations etc. Students are given assignment on what's app groups, participate in online discussions through these whatsapp groups, and access resources which are sent through links and videos etc. at their convenience with flexibility.
4. Collaborative Tools: Blended teaching often incorporates various collaborative tools and platforms, such as group discussion and group projects. These tools enable communication and teamwork and promote peer-to-peer learning and fosters a collaborative learning environment. Individual as well as group presentations, group discussions are organized in the class so that a better teaching and learning environment may be provided to the students and they may develop the habit of researching themselves.
5. Assessment and Feedback: In blended learning environment we assess their progress from time to time through online quizzes, written assignments and in-class exams. Continuous feedback is often provided through both automated platforms (e.g., instant quiz results) and personal instructor feedback, enabling students to stay on track. Even the feedback on various issues related to teaching is taken through google forms.

2. AS PER NEED OF DIFFERENT GROUPS OF STUDENTS:

The greatest challenge which is faced by the teachers in any educational institution is to understand and meet the diverse needs of the students. It is indeed a daunting task. Effective teaching requires much more than just conveying information; it demands comprehending and addressing the unique requirements of each learner and it starts with knowing your students first. So the teachers in our college follow the following strategies to understand and address the different requirements of each learner.

1. By a rapport building session in the induction as well as in two initial classes of every session the teachers try to understand the background, the fundamentals and the interests of the students by asking them some basic questions.
2. Then teachers try to find out their specific needs and their goals in life. Somehow the teachers try to enhance the skills indispensable to achieve their goals and excel in their careers e.g. if a student says he/she wants to be a lawyer then he/she is given an assignment to defend a particular stance and then present it logically in front of the class so that his/her ability to argue logically as well as cogently and his/her ability to persuade people with confidence may be improved.
3. Teachers also identify students with special needs and divyang students. If a student has problem in walking (being physically challenged) we make sure all his/her classes are on the ground floor so that he/she may easily attend the classes by using the access ramp on the ground floor. If someone is visually challenged fully or partially then we take the measures accordingly e.g. we have a student who is partially visually challenged so we make sure she sits in the front row so that she may see the blackboard properly and while writing on the blackboard we write in bigger font so that she may easily see. We also ensure she understands and picks up what we say by glancing at her notebook and by asking some questions while recapitulating the lecture.
4. By talking to students teachers try to identify their learning difficulties or disabilities e.g. someone may have difficulty in reading, difficulty in remembering, difficulty in writing or even understanding, imagining or in forming logical correlations. Then teachers identify what kind of a teaching method or a combination of methods (visual, auditory, kinesthetic) would be the most appropriate for the effective teaching in that class.
5. Teachers also test their prior knowledge and try to know their experiences by going for previous knowledge testing (PK testing) then the teachers start from the point where the students are not able to answer the further questions. Sometimes, by explaining the title of the chapter, at times by narrating an anecdote or even at times by cracking a joke (a harmless one) teachers try to arouse the interest and the curiosity of the students. These are the ways usually used by the teachers to stimulate the inquisitiveness of the students.
6. To make the teaching learning experience interesting and to ensure that the knowledge imparted may remain etched in the memory of the students for a long time teachers show them various videos, podcasts and PPT presentations related to their topics.
7. All the teachers are connected to their students through the whatsapp groups and they keep sharing videos, notes and important information. It is also beneficial for those students who remain unable to attend the college for a few days due to some unavoidable circumstances like medical problem or demise in the family. Through these groups at least they get to know what has been taught in their absence and they may also clarify their doubts on the whatsapp group.

8. If the teachers feel that some students are introvert and are not team players then some group exercises are given to them so that they may learn communicate in a better manner and to work in a team. If students lack communication skills then through group discussions and role plays they are motivated to push their boundaries to improve their communication skills.

That's how the teachers in our college try to meet and address the various and diverse needs of the students by employing the need based teaching methodology.
